

History Repeats Itself in Dighton on July Fourth

The Fourth Annual Rereading of the Declaration of Independence

AN INVITATION

If you are a history buff and can spend an hour or so stepping back in time, please join us at the Dighton Community Church on Elm Street as we celebrate the Declaration of Independence, which was first read in this church on July 13, 1776, by Reverend Ezra Stiles.

On Saturday evening, July 4, 2015, it will be reread in the candlelit church by Patrick W. Menges. Weather permitting, the rereading will be preceded by a candlelight walk through the historic cemetery to the church, accompanied by Colonial Militia. Candles will be provided. The walk begins at 8:30 p.m. and a coffee hour will follow the rereading.

The event is free of charge.
